Do not stand by my grave and weep . . .

I am the sunlight on ripened grain.
I am the gentle autumn rain.

that intersects many paths
but no two ways run parallel for long.

Few will admit it is so.
Some weep openly and many cry

To cry at each farewell is to have

Farewell to you and the youth I have spent with you.

It was but yesterday we met in a dream.

You have sung to me in my aloneness, and I of your longings have built a tower in the sky.

But now our sleep has fled and our dream is over, and it is no longer dawn.

The noontide is upon us and our half waking has turned to fuller day, and we must part.

If in the twilight of memory we should meet once more, we shall speak again together and you shall sing to me a deeper song.

And if our hands should meet in another dream we shall build another tower in the sky.

--Kahlil Gibran
